

Reading Passage: Emma and the Lost Puppy (Fiction 2)

One bright and sunny day, Emma was playing in her backyard. She loved to play with her toys and run around. Suddenly, she heard a soft whimpering sound. Emma followed the sound and found a small, fluffy puppy hiding behind a bush.

"Hello, little puppy," Emma said gently. The puppy looked scared and hungry. Emma decided to help the puppy. She carefully picked it up and took it inside her house.

"Mom, look what I found!" Emma called out. Her mom came and saw the puppy in Emma's arms. "Oh, dear! This puppy must be lost," Mom said. "We should take care of it and try to find its owner."

Emma and her mom gave the puppy some food and water. The puppy ate hungrily and wagged its tail. Emma felt happy to help the little puppy.

After the puppy finished eating, Emma made a cozy bed for it with a soft blanket. The puppy curled up and fell asleep quickly. Emma and her mom decided to put up some posters around the neighborhood to find the puppy's owner.

The next day, Emma and her mom walked around the neighborhood, putting up posters. They hoped someone would recognize the puppy and come to get it.

In the afternoon, a lady named Mrs. Johnson saw the poster and knocked on their door. "I think you found my puppy!" she said excitedly. Emma and her mom brought the puppy to the door, and it jumped happily into Mrs. Johnson's arms.

"Thank you so much for taking care of my puppy," Mrs. Johnson said. "His name is Max, and he means the world to me."

Emma felt proud that she helped Max find his way home. From that day on, Emma and Mrs. Johnson became good friends, and Emma often visited Max to play with him.
