The Guardian discusses the possibility of creating a live-action movie for How to Train Your Dragon. The fastest record to make a remake of a movie was three years and that movie was True Lies. DreamWork's released How to Train Your Dragon: The Hidden World four years ago. With the record of creating a remake in three years the chance of a live-action movie is there. So the question still remains is there a possibility of creating a live-action movie for How to Train Your Dragon? More - statement ?

STEM goal → TJ (Research, creative aspect)

I would like to study at TJ because it encourages STEM. STEM requires research as a person will not have a lot of information in their head. Creativity is a key aspect when it comes to STEM because without creativity STEM will be the same as it is. TJ requires me to think outside of the box and work with other people which supports teamwork. Teamwork is a very important thing in your job as you will never know who you will work with so you should have an open mindset. I believe studying at TJ will help me get an open mindset and grant me more creativity.
