Title: The Enchanted Forest

In the heart of the silent woods,
Beneath the silver moon's glow,
Lies an enchanted forest,
Where magic and wonder grow.

The trees stand tall and whisper,
Sharing secrets of olden days,
Their leaves dance to ancient tunes,
Telling tales in mystic ways.

In this realm, fairies take flight,
With wings that sparkle at night,
They sprinkle stardust on the ground,
Making everything shimmer and bright.

The unicorn with a mane so white,
Gallops freely, a magnificent sight.
Its horn, radiant in the starry night,
Guides lost wanderers with its light.

Deep within, by the silent brook,
Mermaids sing songs of the sea,
Their voices soft, pure, and sweet,
A melody of pure ecstasy.

The wise old owl, perched up high,
Watches over this magical spree,
Its eyes, a reflection of ancient times,
Holding stories of history.

Every creature, big or small,
Has a tale to tell in this forest hall,
For in this enchanted, mystical place,
Time stands still, in a dreamy daze.

If you ever chance upon this grove,
Let your imagination freely rove,
For in this world of fantasy and dream,
Things are never quite as they seem.
